“ I was privileged to care for Mrs. Watson in the later years of her long life. It was apparent that she was truly loved by her family who always came with her for appointments. You learn the most about patients character by watching their families and how they care for their parents and grandparents. The Watson family reflected the strong character of Mrs. Watson. They are thoughtful, empathetic and kind to their loved ones to the end. This is also why Mrs. Watson will live on through her loving family. Our thoughts are with you all as you move forward through this difficult time but cherish memories of her and she will always be present.
