Had 2 comment back. Not 2 be rude but he is so sadly missed u as his only family member that couldnt even make a phone call to say i am so sorry. 16 days later. My heart has been broken to 1 million pieces after 38 years together. Worst days of my life. But its ok. I get it. Its not about melvin 2 anyone but me i guess. Appreciate a little bit the post but a phone call would have done a lot better.

The devastation of losing a person that did nothing, but brought laughs and happiness to everyone will never be forgotten. We loved Melvin and this will never ever change. He would never hurt anyone, that's a FACT! He brought excscinding love to all!. Only one person hurt to him. As mom would say, "Its ok ,but its not ok "I cant imagine, as his wife and love of his life, how hard this for you. Be thankful for not getting that phone call! You of all people know how deceptive it would have been. Everyone is her for you, remember this. Last but not least, don't let evil who post on this wall destroy such precious memories of Melvin. This tribute wall represents all the people Melvin loved and who love him.

Please don't let it bother you. We all know the truths. Remember we all have a cross to carry in this life. Some peoples cross is heavier than most. There will never be anyone that can ever be as loving & joyful as Melvin. Everyone that truly and sincerely loved him will acknowledge that he was a huge gift from God! I for one am so grateful to have had the opportunity to have him in my life! He wasn't a greedy selfless person who ever stole or cheated as some people on this earth are. He was a gift that will be forever cherished.

All children and his sisters nephews nieces and friends all but 1brother, will treasure his life to infinity. We will lock all the precious memories he gave us in our heart.
